A maximum of 6 graduate credit hours from outside the IU Department of Information and Library Science may, in certain circumstances and with approval (using the "Outside Course Approval Form"), be applied to the MLS degree. These 6 credit hours may be taken at Indiana University, or at another university. Outside courses are warranted only when they are relevant to the student's career objectives and will contribute more to the enrichment of their programs than would additional ILS courses. Ordinarily, permission for such outside course work must be obtained before enrolling in the course. The course must be completed with a grade of B or higher, must not be applied to another degree (except in the case of a recognized dual-degree program), and must be taken within the five-year time frame allowed for completion of the degree.

* Prerequisite - Advisor approval and successful completion of 18 ILS credits.

 Electives

- ILS-Z 601 Directed Readings (1-6 cr.)
- ILS-Z 602 Directed Research (1-6 cr.)
- ILS-Z 603 Workshop in Library and Information Science (1-3 cr., often 1.5 cr.)
 - These workshops focus on practical, professional skills. You can count up to 6 credits of Z 603 toward your degree.
- ILS-Z 604 Topics in Library and Information Science (3 cr.) (professional issue topic)
- ILS-Z 629 Topics in Information Sources and Services (3 cr.) (professional issue topic)
